Lakers' God - Kobe Bryant

Kobe's father, Joey Bryant, was a former NBA basketball player, and he named his youngest son after the famous Japanese beef from Kobe. Kobe's grandfather used to send Kobe NBA videos when he was little, and Kobe himself began to play basketball when he was only three. It's not hard to see why he chose to be a professional basketball player at the age of only 17.

With such great success, international companies like Adidas, Nike, and Coca-Cola have worked with him. Besides, he also worked on a song with one of the greatest names in Asian pop music, Jay Chou. All the money the song made has been given to people in need. In fact, Kobe had a band when he was in high school, so he is no stranger to music.

He went through many ups and downs in his twenty-year NBA life, so leaving the NBA is like leaving his best friend. Although it's hard, he has made up his mind that it's about time to say goodbye to basketball. In an interview, he said that he felt at peace with his decision. At the end of it, he thanked his fans for giving him so much support and respect. And he said that it was something he would never forget.

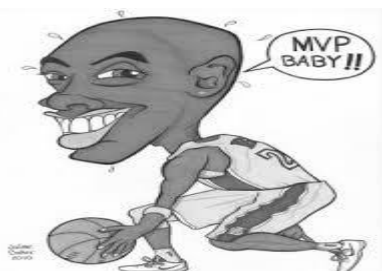

This legendary basketball star is saying goodbye to his fans not only with the amazing records he has set but also with a poem he wrote:

*This season is all I have left to give.
My heart can take the pounding
My mind can handle the grind
But my body knows it's time to say goodbye
And that's OK,
I'm ready to let you go.*

If you are looking for some kind of exercise to help you lose weight and feel better about yourself, cycling is a good choice. You can easily bring cycling into your life because it can be used for transportation. In other words, it can save you money and make you healthy. As a low-impact exercise, cycling puts less pressure on the joints than running, and it can still burn calories effectively.

Before you hit the road, do not forget to put on your helmet. Being safe is the most important thing! Make sure your tires and brakes are working well. When you are cycling in the evening, remember to wear a bright jacket. Also, you should turn on the lights on the front and the back of your bike on cloudy or rainy days. You don't want to get in trouble on your way to school, office, or home.

Give it a try! It's easier than you think. Once you get used to cycling, you will enjoy it. You can easily go to any places you want with a good bike and helmet. Feel the cool wind in your hair. It is great!
