A study following 450,000 people in the UK has found that babies born during the summer months of June, July, and August are heavier when they were born and taller after they grow up, as well as healthier.

That sounds interesting, doesn't it? This could be that the mothers of summer babies are able to enjoy more sunshine, so their babies get more Vitamin D. Winter babies born during the months of December, January, and February, however, are lighter at birth and shorter when growing up.

The study also found some kinds of diseases like heart disease may be brought on by the season of birth. For example, people born in March and April are at higher risk of heart disease. As for people born in May and July, they have the lowest risk of disease.

But do those born at the end of the year have to worry all the time? No, they don't need to fret at all. Exercising and eating health food are more important than what month you were born in deciding your health!

Baseball was almost only a game for men for many years. Taiwan's first women's baseball team only started in 2001, almost 100 years after the creation of its first men's team in 1903.

Now, 17 years later, three pioneers are creating a new road in baseball for female players in Taiwan to follow. They have been signed to play in the Japan Women's Baseball League (JWBL)—the world's only professional baseball league for women. Pitcher/infielder Hsieh Yu-ying(謝鈺澄) and outfielder Shen Chia-wen(沈嘉玟) will play for the Kyoto Flora, and pitcher/outfielder Tseng Chi(曾琪) will play for the Aichi Dione.

The three Taiwanese players heading for Japan to play professionally will inspire the female baseball players in Taiwan. So the three players know they have a mission much bigger than themselves. The three were recruited because of their skills and their aim to help other female players in Taiwan.

A company started the four-team JWBL in 2009 to provide a career opportunity for female baseball lovers across the world, but it's a challenge since most people do not think baseball is a game for women.
